Visit a lovely hamlet and learn about old mines and flooded lagoons...

Look out for: Burnett's Hill Chapel, coal mining heritage, disused pits/lagoons, Landshipping Quay, estuary views.

Landshipping is a lovely little hamlet on the banks of the eastern Cleddau. Its abandoned quay a mile to the south where the Daugleddau diverge was once a busy ferry terminal and coal port. The Garden Pit was the site of a terrible mining disaster in 1844 when the sea broke into the mine workings. 42 people were killed - many of them women and children. The area is peppered with mine workings and flooded lagoons.

Burnetts Hill Chapel at Martletwy was restored with the aid of a Heritage Lottery Fund Grant to the National Park Authority in 2001. The cottage chapel was previously unaltered for 200 years. There are great views of the waterway.

Character: Foreshore, fields and livestock, minor roads (1.5 km).
