Character: Rugged coast, cliff edge, hills, livestock.

Caution: Dogs must be kept on leads at Upper Porthmawr, free range chickens in farmyard.

1 stile, 1 kissing gate, uneven paths, steps.

From car park, walk back up road, ignore first track on left and turn left past caravan site. Follow track round to right (follow sign for Carn Llidi viewpoint), through farm and stay on track at fingerpost. Follow track left, then right, and at fork by National Trust 'St David's Head' sign, take left-hand track. Stay on track and continue straight on after last field, when track turns into path. Follow path downhill, going straight ahead at crossings with other paths. When approaching bottom of small valley, look across for path going up the opposite side of the valley and take it. (It is not visible from the stream - cross stream, turn right and left again on to obvious path).

outcrop. When path goes down again and broadens out, take left path at fork on neck of peninsula towards the south side of the peninsula. Follow the obvious Coast Path back towards Carn Llidi. Look for steps ahead on right and follow path up steps and follow Coast Path back to car park, keeping straight ahead at crossing.
